KURTIN BANGS

[ENG]

KURTIN BANGS are not a haircut.
They are a band, playing music that sounds slow and thoughtful, yet energetic and exciting, effortlessly blending psychedelic rock and noise, 90s shoegaze and free jazz.

The members of the instrumental trio met during their studies in the town of Weimar, Germany. Marco Shevchenko (electric guitar), Felix Neumann (drums) and Thomas Ccahuana Tito (electric bass guitar) initially set out to play fully improvised concerts that don't reveal themselves as such, and discovered that they share a common intuition of form, timbre and an occasional love for dramatic sentimentality. They soon departed from their exclusively improvisational approach towards composing more song-like structures, without losing sight of opportunities for spontaneous real-time development of their ideas.

Listeners have described the music of KURTIN BANGS as dreamy, intense, emotional, gritty, yet minimalistic; and have noted similarities to artists such as Jakob Bro, Jeff Parker, [Bill Frisell & Jim Black?].

Currently, the three members reside in different countries: Thomas in Leipzig, Germany; Felix in Bern, Switzerland; and Marco in Istanbul, Turkey. The trio is determined to merge their combined sonic experiences into a recording in the summer of 2026.

KURTIN BANGS are post-everything-jazz - catchy melodies and head-nodding grooves are turned on every side and eventually drown in thick walls of sound.
